ASBESTOS BLUES

BY JOCK MCCULLOCH
COMING IN MAY

Our evening meeting date in May has been changed to accommodate our very special guest speaker Jock McCulloch whose book 'ASBESTOS BLUES' deals with blue asbestos which is still mined in South Africa, where industry and government have been slow to respond to the environmental and health issues.

- Were mining and manufacturing companies, as they claimed, the victims of imperfect science and inadequate state regulation?

Since the 1930's growing evidence of the health risks was often suppressed by companies and the South African government

- Is enough being done to clean up the environmental damage caused by the mines?

Large areas of the Northern Cape have been made permanently hazardous by asbestos mining. Wind-borne fibre continues to spread that hazard in an ever widening circle of risk. The Department of Environment has allocated R100 million to clean up un-reclaimed mines, but far more will be necessary to make the landscape itself safe.

- Should British companies be held responsible for the behaviour of their South African subsidiaries?

The prosperity of the asbestos industry in South Africa depended on apartheid. Company profits and the dividends paid to British shareholders were fuelled by the lowly paid and hazardous work of women and juveniles in South African mines.

Jock McCulloch also produced another book in 1984 called 'ASBESTOS ITS HUMAN COST'

This book deals with the Asbestos issues in Australia and its ramifications.

Jock is a Lecturer in the Faculty of the Constructed Environment, RMIT University, Australia.

The meeting date for this very special event will be Friday 16th of May at 7.00pm this will take the place of the night meeting scheduled for Tuesday 20th May.

Goes to Shirley White of the Queensland Asbestos Diseases Society for her well deserved award 'ORDER OF AUSTRALIA'

SUB COMMITTEE REPORT

The sub-committee that was formed to review the Rules of the Association has come up with some recommendations which were brought to the night meeting on the 18th of March. Those recommendations are:

- Committee agrees that the old rules should be thrown out and the association adopt the Model Rules. With minor changes recommended suiting the association. The sub committee will reconvene after they have checked the model rules.
 - The sub committee stay in place to adapt the rules to suit the organisation as it grows.
 - Either this committee or another committee develop procedures to be followed by the organisation for eg.
 - ❖ Grievance procedures

- ETC.

The sub-committee will meet again to fine tune their recommendations to the committee of management.

LOOP HOLE FOR ASBESTOS DEFENDANTS?

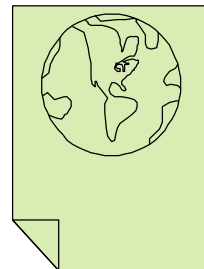

Laurie Kazan-Allen has posted some very interesting articles on her ibas site on the web one of these articles is to do with Bendix Mintex (Honeywell) company to sell to the Federal Mogul company.

In essence these documents say that Bendix has settled 53,000 asbestos claims, averaging $1,000 each, there are 47,000 more asbestos –related claims pending. A bizarre solution has been found which is breathtaking in its audacity: pass these claims to a company already enjoying judicial protection against asbestos lawsuits.

These companies are all over the world and it seems that Federal Mogul has little to lose by taking on the asbestos liabilities of the Bendix brakes parts business. Due to its Chapter 11 status, thousands of asbestos claims against Federal Mogul are frozen. It appears that if this deals proceeds, claims for asbestos injuries will no longer be possible against Bendix or Honeywell: all future lawsuits, including those from non-US. Litigants, will be brought against a paralysed company, Federal Mogul, instead of the still viable Honeywell group.

SOCIAL JUSTICE UNIT OF THE UNITING CHURCH Visits GARDS INC.

On the 25th of March at our support meeting we had a very special guest come along to meet the GARDS members, his name was David Pargeter. David was very interesting to listen to and he knows a great deal about the Latrobe Valley, he worked in and around the Power Stations as an Industrial Chaplain for some time. David was very keen to hear the members' stories and experiences with asbestos disease. David has promised to come back to GARDS later in the year to meet with our members again. We look forward to seeing him.

Work and Health in the Latrobe Valley: Community Perspectives on Asbestos Issues.

What do you think are the main issues regarding asbestos for the community? What needs to be done about these issues? These are some of the questions Hannah Walker and Tony LaMontagne (from Melbourne University), hope to answer in the next few months by talking to people in the Latrobe Valley about their views on this very important issue. We are very keen to bring some of the asbestos issues in the Latrobe Valley forward, through the voices of the people most affected. This area has been underdeveloped in previous research and policy-making, and it is only through talking to people in the Valley that we can develop a comprehensive public health response to asbestos issues. We will be speaking to former SECV workers, their families, local trade union representatives, members of the Gippsland Asbestos Related Disease Support Network and members of the wider LTV community. If you are contacted by Hannah or Tony we hope you will consider being involved and we look forward to speaking with you and hearing your views. This research will yield crucial information to guide the development of interventions to address asbestos issues in the Latrobe Valley and will be unique in its focus on the perspectives of those most affected by asbestos issues.

Dr. Tony LaMontagne is an Associate Professor with the Centre for Study of Health and Society at the School of Population Health, University of Melbourne. Hannah Walker is a sociologist and researcher with the University of Melbourne.

To Edison Mission Energy and Maurice Blackburn & Cashman for their generous monetary donation to our organisation.
